

ALEXANDRIA.

MONDAY EVENING, SEPTEMBER 16,

EVERY NOW and then a newspaper paragraph is seen to the effect that the prohibition party and the farmers' alliance are each making arrangements for having either State or local tickets in the field at the coming election in Virginia. The result of the election referred to will be of too grave importance to every interest in the State to permit any wise Virginian really concerned about the State's welfare to take part in any such movements. That the democratic party is the real temperance party is proved by the fact that it, like its founder, Thomas Jefferson, favors a tax on whisky, so as to make that article dear and thereby diminish its use. That it is the farmers' party is proved by the fact that it favors a reduction in the tariff on all the articles the farmer has to buy, and the removal of the restrictions the tariff imposes on the sale of his products. On both these two points the democratic party stands in direct opposition to its republican adversary. No republican in Virginia will be silly enough to throw away his vote next November on temperance or farmers' candidates. Such votes as those candidates may receive will be those of democrats, and neither the reputation for sincerity nor wisdom of those who cast them will be increased thereby.

Mr. Harrison is not adding much to his reputable reputation, even in the North, by his endorsement of General Mahone's meth ods, and his promise to throw the whole weight of the administration in the General's favor. The New York Herald, which prides itself upon being independent, says :

"The republican campaign in Virginia is being conducted on principles in contrast with the high moral ideas which the republican party claims. As an example of the most corrupt elements in the politics of the day it is pre-eminent. At the head of it is a man, Mahone, noted only for his trickery and his readiness to sell himself to any faction that will pay his price. The more honorable men in his own party have thrown him over. He represents nothing except the finesse of a desperate political brigand. But he has the President behind him, to-gether with the advice of the shrewdest and most unprincipled leaders among northern republicans. If he wants money to buy votes he can have it, and the President's party will furnish it and the President himself will wink at it. Why is all this? Is it for the good of the country? Oh, no; but it will strengthen the republican party in its next fight and give Harrison, it is hoped, a renomination. Corruption in Virginia who esale and open, is the means of giving the republicans a further hold on the quisites and emoluments of office in Wash lugton.

IN RESPECT of the Blair bill, which, according to General Mahone, is a favorite measure with the republicans, it need not be forgotten that though the chairman of the committee of the U.S. House of Representatives to whom that bill was referred was a democrat, who was nearly always present on that committee's meeting days, the republican members of the committee would not attend, and that, therefore, no action could be taken on that bill; nor that noth ing was better known, both in the committee room and on the floor of the House, than the fact that the republican representatives were as indifferent to the fate of the bill as were the democrats. It might also be as well to remember that while all the democratic members of Congress are in favor of the bill. Senator Hiscock, when a member of the House, objected to its consideration, and that Mr. Reed, now a prominent republican candidate for speaker of the House, says the bill referred to is one in which his people are not interested.

HALF A million of people are now drawing pensions from the government, and the applications for pessions of eight hundred thousand more are awaiting action in the pension bureau. But this does not satisfy Mr. Mason, commissioner of internal revenue, who says that every federal soldier who served in the war should have a pension. Mr. Mason bails from West Virginia. Bad as Tanner was, it is we'l for the country that he, and not Mason, was in charge of the pension bureau. The latter evidently not only wants the tariff, but the internal revenue increased in order that money may be raised for pensions. Even northern people are beginning to doubt the advantage of the preservation of the Union, if the people thereof are to be taxed to death to pay the preservers, or, rather, those who say they are.

DUBING THE one democratic administration since the war there were two general congressional, in addition to the numerous State and local elections in the South, but at none of them was there any manifesta tion of violence, except that charged by the white Mahoneites in the Petersburg district of this State, last fall, against their former political allies, Langton's negro supporters. In every election held in the South since Mr. Harrison was chosen President there has been more or less violence. Now, no matter what the cause of the change may be, that its effect is injurious to both races in the South goes without saying.

FROM WASHINGTON

[Special Correspondence of the Alexa. GAZETTs]

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 16, 1889. The Virginia democratic association of this city will take possession of their new quarters, 927 F street to morrow night, on of Havana, and the other south southeast of which occasion they hope that Mr. Tyler, the democratic candidate for Lieutenant Governor of Virginia, will address them. He has been invited to do so, and as he will probably be in adjoining portion of Virginia to-morrow, it is expected that the invitation will be accepted.

The following changes in the 4th class postoffices of Virginia were made to day: Alonzaville, Shenandoah county, Benjamin F. Coffelt appointed postmaster, vice Mary J. Gochenour removed; Dilwyn, Bucking ham county, Joshua Davis, vice A. B. Wade removed; Tucker's Hill, Westmoreland county, Vivian O. Dobyns, vice Wm.

G. Moss resigned. Langston, the colored contestant for Mr. Venable's seat in the U.S. House of Representatives from the Petersburg, Virginia, district, is in the city to-day, having returned from New York, where he made a speech last week. He says he will start for Ohio in a short time. When asked if all the negroes in Virginia would vote for General Mahone at the coming election in that State, he said he thought most of them

There is some talk here of a proposed compromise between the two parties in the next U. S. House of Representatives by which the democrats will be bound to ab stain from filibustering if the republicans will agree to make no attempt to deprive them of the rights appertaining to so large a minority. Several of the representatives of both parties now in the city were asked about this to-day, but none had heard any-thing of it, nor could any of them see how such a compromise could be made. On the contrary, they all seemed to think that the republicans would attempt to so change the rules of the House as to enable them to effect any object they may have in view, and that the democrats would resist such a change by all the means in their power, and that, therefore, most of the coming session would be frittered away in protracted and indeterminate squabbling.

It was reported this morning that $500 had been deposited at the bar room of the Metropolitan Hotel, in this city, to be bet on Mahone's election in Virginia. A rush to the bar room referred to was the inevi table consequence, in order to take it up at once, but, as was expected by the knowing ones, it was found that no money had been left there for any such purpose.

A Tammany democrat here to-day says there is nothing in the talk about the demo-crats of the late Mr. Cox's district running Carl Shuz for Congress in that district, but that their candidate will be Mr. Wm. Selzer, a young lawyer of great ability. As the district is democratic by a large majority, there is no doubt that Mr. Cox's successor will be a democrat.

It is said here that the democrats have not made as much capital out of the pension rerating business as they could have made. but that it will be exploited at length and played for all it is worth before the fall elec tions. It is reported that nearly all the employees in the pension bureau made hav while the Tanner sun was shining and had their pensions raised by rerating, and that those who did not avail themselves of the chance are now regretting their lost oppor

Judge Barnes, of the county court, ordered the negro to stop. The negro attacked the judge but the latter retaliated by knocking him down. The negro was then disarmed and arrested. Meanwhile the blacks, hearing of the arrest, determined to rescue the prisoner. A few white men rallied around the judge. There was a hard fight in which the negroes were beaten back, and some of the ringleaders arrested. The prisoners were taken to the county jail and the sheriff and his deputies were order ed by the judge to guard the building. The blacks quickly organized and made an attack on the jail. The sheriff was ordered to fire on them but refused, and the negroes forced their way into the jail and rescued the prisoner. Judge Barnes organized the whites and attacked the blacks at the jail. There was a bloody fight, in which pistols, knives and clubs were used. Judge Barnes fatal. Dr. Johnson, EJ. Lamb, and 3 other white men were seriously hurt. Two ne groes were shot and a half burdred beads were broken. The whites won, and the ringleaders were again put in jail and a heavy guard placed around the building, trict. Honoring Emperor William.

HANOVER, Sept. 16 -A grand banque was given last night by the provincial estates in honor of Emperor William. Count von Munster, German Ambassador to France, gave the toast in honor of the imperial family. In his speech he said the Emperor could always count upon the readiness of Hanover to respond to any call whether for peace or war. The Emperor in his response said he was fully conscious of the loyalty. nobility and self sacrificing patriotism which had distinguished Hanover. It was due to these qualities that the imperial house had been able to perform an extremely difficult task, namely, never to let go anything that had once been grasped. At the conclusion of his speech, which was loudly received, the Enperor proposed a toast to Hanover, and drank it from the same glass from which his grandfather drank a similar toast

Snmac.....

| Snime | Snim White Middlings Cotton Seed Meal 24 00 The market opens quiet. Flour is in fair demand for good old wheat brands. The only demand for Wheat is for good milling lots, but little of which is coming in: we note sales at from 55 to 80, the latter for choice old hard longberry. Corn is easy at 42 to 44 No change in Eye or

Oats. Country produce is in better demand at firmer figures. In Baltimore to-day Wheat was active and firm, with increased receipts finding prompt disposal. Millers found a few lots of suitable quality, and paid 81, 82 and 83 for good. There were a few sales to grade steamer at 72, 74 and 75 as to quality, and the bulk of offerings being inferior, and damaged was sold at 50, 53, 55, 60, 65, 68
